There is a fresh idea that a man must live up to his position. It is said that one's house furniture and dress should inform the world of one's rank. This idea is foolish. Throw it aside. Find out what you want and spend money on that; find out what you do not care about and spend nothing on such things. Find out by practical tests what you really want and enjoy. A man who has not experienced ups and downs, a man who has not been forced to live more cheaply than in former times, has still his education to begin. Let the experiment be made. He will find to his surprise that he has been eating more than was necessary; that the cheap lodging, the rough clothes, the plain give him as much as the costly things that he has previously enjoyed. The happy man is he who lives wholly in himself. He does what he wishes and not what others expect him to buy. He works at what he believes can do well and not what will bring him money or favour. However poor may be, he is always open handed to his friends. If he has more now he does not care to save, for he knows she can do with less. He shares his sovereign or shilling with a friend. Where do beggars usually go? Not to the great houses where people are rolling in wealth, but to the doors of poor men who hae scarce enough to meet their own needs.

Questions:

1. What is the wrong view held by the people about life?
2. How does the writer describer the man who is still to be educated?
3. Who is a happy man?
4. What is the kind of work done by the happy man?
5. Why do beggars go to the doors of poor men?

Dolphins are regarded as the friendliest creatures in the sea and stories of them helping drowning sailors have been common since Roman times. The more we learn about dolphins, the more we realize that their society is more complex than people previously imagined. They look after other dolphins when they are ill, care for pregnant mothers and protect the weakest in the community, as we do. Some Scientists have suggested that dolphins have a language but it is much more probable that they communicate with each other without needing words could any of these mammals be more intelligent than man? Certainly the most common argument in favor of man's superiority over them that we can kill them more easily than they, can kill us is the least satisfactory. On the contrary, the more we discover about these remarkable creatures, the less we appear superior when we destroy them.

PART – C (3 X 10 = 30 Marks)

23. Read the following comprehension and answer the questions.

Children prefer to be treated as normal human beings, as fellow citizens on earth, subject to the same impulses, good and bad, as adults, and expect the same amount of toleration that they see practiced among adults. They see that adults do practically all that they forbid the young fellows to do and never correct each other. They eat greedily on occasions, express boredom, show reluctance to do any work, utter falsehoods for saving their faces or for social reasons, lose their temper, bite their nails when they are worried, and make errors in calculations.

Thus, children naturally resent that there should be two sets of laws in this world, one for adults and one for them --- a sort of 'apartheid'. 'Are adults above law?' is a question that troubles many a young heart now and then. If a child does not say so, it is not because he has no feeling or judgment in the matter, but because he does not wish to hurt, or it may also be that he had not learnt to use human speech as a weapon of offence or defence. Undoubtedly he will develop it in due course, but, unfortunately at that time his victims will not be adults, because, he himself will be one, but children again, who happen to get around him.

- a) How do children like to be treated – as children or like adults?
 - b) What are the things that children are often forbidden to do?
 - c) Which are the two sets of laws in the world?
 - d) What is the question that troubles children?

PART - B

II. Read the Comprehension and Answer the questions given below:

(8 X 1 = 8 Marks)

How was it possible, I asked myself, to walk for an hour through the woods and see nothing worthy of note? I who cannot see find hundreds of things to interest me through mere touch. I feel the delicate symmetry of a leaf. I pass my hands lovingly about the smooth skin of a silver birch, or the rough, shaggy bark of a pine. In spring I touch the branches of trees hopefully in search of a bud, the first sign of awakening Nature after her winter's sleep. I feel the delightful, velvety texture of a flower, and discover its remarkable convolutions; and something of the miracle of Nature is revealed to me. Occasionally, if I am very fortunate, I place my hand gently on a small tree and feel the happy quiver of a bird in full song. I am delighted to have the cool waters of a brook rush through my open fingers. To me a lush carpet of pine needles or spongy grass is more welcome than the most luxurious Persian rug. To me the pageant of seasons is a thrilling and unending drama, the action of which streams through my finger tips.

6. Pick out the right Synonym of the word underlined in the following Sentences:
 - a. The most luxurious Persian rug.
